The Hamlin Industrial Team made a "dry run" with an industrial prospect here last Thursday. The Texas Industrial Commission brought an "industrial prospect" to town for practice for the team.

Everything seemed to go smoothly and both the team members and the experts from Austin seemed to think that the committee is now ready for the real thing. All we need now is a prospect.

This last stage of the training program sponsored by the Industrial Commission was the culmination of a great deal of work on the part of the committee members and for the first time Hamlin is ready to seek out industrial prospects.

While the committee is ready to meet with any possible prospective industry that might be interested in locating here, the committee does need the help of the community. The people of Hamlin need to be sold on Hamlin as a good place to live and the people of the community need to help out by making every effort to dress up the city.

The work done on both the north and the south entrances to the city has been a great help. Now we need to do a little fix-up, clean-up and paint-up in the downtown area.

Along with the idea of the citizens being sold on Hamlin is the following questionnaire which appeared in an issue of Town Journal. The questionnaire invites persons to rate their home towns.

Although the article by Donald S. Stroezel admits that no questionnaire is foolproof, still it suggests that if the answer is "yes" to 25 or more of the 35 items, chances are you live in a town of which you can be proud.

We list the 35 criteria on which to evaluate Hamlin, hoping that we can answer "yes" to the "required" number.

1. Most high school graduates stay in town.
2. Getting a loan on a sound business venture is possible.
3. The local paper constantly pushes civic improvement.
4. There's a chamber of commerce with a livewire manager.
5. There's a place to swim within easy reach.
6. Young couples have little trouble finding a place to live.
7. The head of your local government is a "get-things-done" man.
8. Town entrances are free from junk, shacks, billboards, and eyesores.
9. There's at least one doctor per 100 people in your county.
10. There's a library with a good collection of recent books.
11. Newcomers quickly feel

$486,260 FOR FIRE LOSS—

School Board Accepts Insurance Settlement

The Board of Trustees of the Hamlin Independent School District formally accepted the insurance settlement of $486,260 for the March fire loss of the Junior High School building. The funds will be invested until the board can make future building plans.

The board, in their regular meeting here Monday, accepted the resignations of five teachers for the coming year and was also informed that a teacher that they hired last week has withdrawn her application.

Mrs. Sharon Neighbors, who was hired last week as a junior high school English and Physical Education teacher, notified Bob Hawes, superintendent, that she was no longer interested in the position.

The board accepted the resignation of three members of the coaching staff and two teachers. Submitting resignations as teachers and coaches were Tommy Varner, seventh grade coach; David Watson, eighth grade coach; and Russell Merket, high school coach. Watson has accepted a high school coaching position at Eagle Pass and Merket has accepted the head coaching position at Jim Ned.

Also resigning were Mrs. Frank Codington, high school history teacher, and Mrs. Rose Ann Graham, pre-kindergarten migrant teacher. Mrs. Codington will join the Jones County Cooperative Education Program as counselor supervisor and will work with the Hamlin and Anson schools as a counselor.

The board appointed Henry Albritton, Sam Mack Hodges and Robert Moore as the Board of Equalization for the district.

In other business, the board approved a two-year contract with Orkin to treat the building currently being used as junior high and the elementary building for termites. The board also opened bids on constructing a new fence around the football field but took no action on the bids because of an apparent misunderstanding on the work to be done. The bids will be re-submitted at a later date.

The board hired Robert Brown of Dallas as an insurance rate specialist and authorized Supt. Hawes to seek applications for an Educational Consultant and a Food Service Director.

FAMILY LIFE EDUCATION—

Mature Parents

Confusion and conflict are likely to result from early parenthood—especially for young women, according to Mrs. Nacey Wilburn, County Extension Agent.

The too-young mother tends to mix the social roles of child, adolescent and parent. Over a time, early parenthood may be related to marital instability, poverty and low educational achievement, the agent noted.

When young people get involved in educational programs related to family life and parenthood, they have a better chance to avoid being affected negatively by the early start of parenthood, she said.

Community sources of family life education—county extension agents, for example—can help groups and individuals plan programs to better understand child development, family life and parenthood.

HOW TO BUY CLOTHES IN 1975

With money-saving and energy-saving two of the biggest problems facing consumers this year, a panel of experts was recently called together to advise "How to Buy Clothes in 1975."

Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Business Council, advised, "The key to buying clothes today is quality—at all price levels. Turn the garment inside out, look at how the edges are finished, how wide the seams are, whether there are missed stitches. Of course, it must fit properly, and today make sure it's easy to care for."

Price alone does not determine a bargain, the authorities agreed at the New York conference. "If it's top quality for that particular item and it works for your way of living, you'll get good wear out of it. That makes it a bargain," said Carrie Donovan, senior fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar.

From the energy-saving standpoint, Sally Martinez, of the Federal Energy Administration, pointed out that washability should be a prime consideration. "And cold water laundering should be the rule, to save both energy and money. Most people don't realize the expense of hot water for laundering," she said. "Did you know it costs more for a man to shave with hot water than with an electric razor? Most people think the electric shaver would cost more, but actually heating the water is the higher cost." She added, "Hot water is the highest factor in your own laundering. It costs more than the laundry detergent, so that makes cold water laundering an important bargain for 1975."

Miss Martinez advised consumers to buy clothing that is adaptable to different temperatures—"for moving from room to room and from indoors to outdoors. We can save a lot of power and money, for both heating and air-conditioning, if we adopt the layered look. In other words, we should buy clothes that we can add or take off to adjust our comfort—in the home and the office—rather than trying to change the room climate by raising the heat or turning on the air conditioner."

Mr. Monte-Sano revealed that his organization had recently asked apparel manufacturers to stress the energy-saving importance of cold water laundering on garment labels. "We also pointed out," he said, "that today's washable fabrics, most of which are synthetics or blends, should never be washed in hot water anyway—a fact that some consumers still don't realize."

A key question for the panel was: do the economy and energy problems of 1975 mean a cutback in fashion taste? Absolutely not, the panel agreed. As Miss Donovan put it, "Any woman who has taste can put herself together attractively today—at any price level."

BAROMETER
for the FUTURE

Webster says that a barometer is an instrument measuring the weight or pressure of the atmosphere, foretelling and measuring changes of weather and altitude.

If God were to place a barometer on our lives, would we be cold, lukewarm, or on fire for the Lord. The past we can not change. . . the future is up to us.

"... what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul." ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

High School Elects New Cheerleaders

Election of cheerleaders was held Thursday after tryouts last Wednesday. Selected by vote of the students were head cheerleader, Susan Howerton, a junior, Patrice Moore, junior, Debra Hollis, junior, Cheryl Baker, sophomore, and Jamie Crowley, freshman.

Cheerleaders are selected by secret ballot, one from each class and two at large. A clinic was held by the sponsor, Miss Dora Mitchell. Any student enrolled in Hamlin High School during the previous semester with a grade average of 75 was eligible to attend the clinic and have their name printed on the ballot.

Attending the clinic this year were Rita Casey, senior head cheerleader, Debra Hollis, Susan Howerton, Cindy Lewis, Patrice Moore, all juniors; Cheryl Baker and Janice Cork, both sophomores; and Starlet Covington, Jamie Crowley and Leela Phariss, all freshmen.

Texas Outdoors

W.R. Long
Texas Parks & Wildlife Department

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is stocking lakes and experimenting with some lesser varieties of the uncommon in the fisheries families for a variety of reasons. One is the known fact that anglers are thoroughly familiar with bass, crappie, catfish and sunfish. They want something new.

They're getting it. The Florida bass is being stocked, and when it crosses with native Texas bass you will have the "superbass," and the smallmouth is going into reservoirs over the state. There are golden croaker, brown and rainbow trout, striped bass from saltwater, and Fisheries Director Bob Kemp and Inland Fisheries Coordinator Lonnie Peters are doing in-depth work with kamloops trout, coho salmon, redbass, speckled trout from the coast, the Peacock bass from South America and an assortment of hybrids that may eventually change the entire fishing picture in Texas. Texas may lose identity as the best fishing state in the nation and become known as the "fishing superstate".

It should be. We have more inland water than any state except Alaska. Game wardens and biologists don't collect such reams of data they desire overnight. It may take some years before all the facts are in and ecological barriers erected and torn down, ideal locations picked, the right fish for the right type of water chosen, but it will be eventually in the files and the work going on. Unlike the Hollywood marriage where no ten-year wedding anniversary gifts are given because no one stays married that long, fisheries work will go on and on as long as we have a Texas.

New species have another value. Many of them were chosen because they prefer open, deep, cool water, hence become a filler fish in an ecological niche heretofore barren. They may also be the type predator (northern pike) to prey on lesser species and rid our waters of such undesirable as gizzard shad, small sunfishes that are not interesting to the angler, thus saving millions over the years in chemical renovation of public waters.

The impossible is what nobody can do, until at long last somebody does it. Thus it is with making Texas a better fishing state. It can't be done, but somebody is doing it, so save your dimes. You may want bigger, stronger, heavier tackle before long for a type of fish in the same category... bigger, stronger, heavier... and much, much better!

Philosopher Claims He Knows Why the Domino Theory Didn't Apply In Viet Nam

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One takes a last look at the Viet Nam war this week.

Dear editor:
I know President Ford has said we ought to forget about the Viet Nam war and turn our thoughts to other things here at home, and I intend to, but there's one last thing I'd like to say.

As I understand it, one of the stated reasons for our being over there was the domino theory, that if South Viet Nam fell to the Communists then another country would, then another and another, like dominoes do when you stand them on end in a row and push the first one over.

I have thought this over and while I haven't figured out who stood those countries on end in the first place and who set them up in rows, I followed the war in the newspapers and on television, noticing that the more we bombed the less we won, that the Generals who kept saying they could see the light at the end of the tunnel didn't seem to know the war wasn't in a tunnel, it was out in the jungles. In fact, we went through countless tunnels, only to find they led to nowhere.

Therefore I've come to the conclusion that the game over there wasn't dominoes, it was checkers.

But it wasn't played by the rules of checkers used here in Hamlin. The Viet Cong played like all its checkers were kings from the start of the game and you could move them forward or backward any time you pleased and jump in any direction you wanted and over as many spaces as you like. If it looked like they were losing they'd grab their checkers and move to another board in another part of the jungle.

I don't know why it never occurred to our leaders that you can't play dominoes on a checker board.

And the thing I guess we'd better be thinking about is that the Generals who kept saying we've got the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese mortally weakened and on the run, all we need is a few hundred thousand more men and a few more billion dollars and we'll have victory by Christmas, are the same Generals who will be in charge if the U.S. ever gets into a really genuine war of survival.

President Ford is right, we ought to turn our thoughts to something else, and that may be one of them.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Unseen Hazard

One of the less obvious hazards faced by the cold weather driver, notes the Texas Safety Association, is deadly carbon monoxide poisoning.

Invisible, tasteless, odorless carbon monoxide gas is a greater hazard in cold weather because drivers roll up their windows on chilly days, cutting off ventilation that would normally sweep fumes out of the passenger compartment.

Positive ventilation — a movement of fresh air through the car's passenger compartment — is a strong defense against carbon monoxide poisoning. However, safety experts caution, simply opening side vent windows will not necessarily ventilate a car. Since vent windows opened to their normal position draw air out of the passenger compartment rather than funneling it in, the result could be to help draw in exhaust fumes already seeping into the passenger compartment.

Good automobile maintenance is the best insurance against carbon monoxide dangers. Exhaust systems should be free of blown-out gaskets, leaking pipe connections and holes in mufflers and tailpipes. Holes in the floorboards, firewall or trunk can also provide an easy entry for fumes leaking from the exhaust system.

Tip-offs to carbon monoxide poisoning include drowsiness, weakness, headache, dizziness, nausea, loss of muscular control and increased pulse and respiration. Although unconsciousness can occur without any warning signals, the motorist who feels any of these symptoms should get out of the car and breathe some fresh air. He should then drive with the windows down and have the exhaust system checked at the first opportunity.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carlton Monday were Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Calhoun of Jacksboro.

Without advertising, you can wave goodbye to the comic strips, the sports page, and the front page of your newspaper.

And maybe your own job.

Think about it. Advertising pays for the features and the news that your newspaper brings to you so economically. Companies that want to tell you about their products, their sales, and their unique services pay for the space to advertise and that pays for most of the newspaper.

If these companies were suddenly deprived of their right to advertise — to communicate with their customers — you can be sure sales would drop. If sales drop, production slows and ultimately people lose jobs. And if certain Texas companies could possibly be ordered not to advertise, who would be next? Maybe your company?

The next time you think about advertising, think about free speech and the right of one person to communicate with another. It's all the same thing.

Write Governor Dolph Briscoe, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711 and your legislators to tell them how you feel. Then sit back and enjoy your newspaper.

Advertising is everybody's business.

Eleven Attend Area FFA Convention In San Angelo

Eleven persons representing the Hamlin FFA Chapter attended the Area II FFA Convention in San Angelo May 9-10. Those attending were Randy Elmore, Tracy Gregory, Steve Hastings, Tommy Maberry, Carrie May, Russell May, Kayla Mehaffey, Guy Turner, Milburn Wink, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Finley.

Several individual members of the Hamlin FFA Chapter and the Hamlin FFA Chapter competed for various awards at the Convention. Russell May won area approval for the Lone Star Farmer Degree, the highest degree conferred by the Texas FFA Association upon its members. Carrie May competed for the National FFA Foundation Poultry Production Award. Julio Villanueva competed for the Cooperative Part-time Training Award in Farm Employees.

Guy Turner, Star Green Hand of the Hamlin FFA Chapter and the Double Mountain FFA District, was named a runner-up for the Area II Star Green Hand Award.

Randy Elmore was selected as one of two FFA members from Area II to continue in competition for a Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo College Scholarship. The Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo Association has been giving ten $4,000 college scholarships to FFA members in Texas for the past several years.

The Hamlin FFA Chapter placed first in Area II in the Building Our American Communities Award Program. This was based primarily on the work the chapter members have done during the year for the Hamlin Child Care Center. In the National Chapter Contest, the Hamlin Chapter placed second. The chapter also received a superior rating in the state chapter rating contest. A superior rating is the highest rating a chapter can receive in state competition. This is the fourteenth consecutive year for the Hamlin Chapter to receive a superior rating. The chapter will continue in competition on the state level in the Building Our American Communities Award Program and in the National Chapter Contest.

The chapter also entered several categories in the VATAT Awards Program. These awards will be presented at the state conference of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas in Houston the latter part of July. Hamlin vocational agriculture teachers, Milburn Wink and Gary Finley were named Area II winners in newspaper and magazine public relations. The Hamlin Herald was named the outstanding newspaper in Area II for promoting vocational agriculture and the FFA. The Hamlin Jaycees were named the outstanding service organization in Area II for supporting the FFA and vocational agriculture programs. NEWS AND VIEWS...

And What Have You

By BOB CRAIG

The Hamlin Industrial Team made a "dry run" with an industrial prospect here last Thursday. The Texas Industrial Commission brought an "industrial prospect" to town for practice for the team.

Everything seemed to go smoothly and both the team members and the experts from Austin seemed to think that the committee is now ready for the real thing. All we need now is a prospect.

This last stage of the training program sponsored by the Industrial Commission was the culmination of a great deal of work on the part of the committee members and for the first time Hamlin is ready to seek out industrial prospects.

While the committee is ready to meet with any possible prospective industry that might be interested in locating here, the committee does need the help of the community. The people of Hamlin need to be sold on Hamlin as a good place to live and the people of the community need to help out by making every effort to dress up the city.

The work done on both the north and the south entrances to the city has been a great help. Now we need to do a little fix-up, clean-up and paint-up in the downtown area.

Along with the idea of the citizens being sold on Hamlin is the following questionnaire which appeared in an issue of Town Journal. The questionnaire invites persons to rate their home towns. Although the article by Donald S. Stroezel admits that no questionnaire is foolproof, still it suggests that if the answer is "yes" to 25 or more of the 35 items, chances are you live in a town of which you can be proud.

We list the 35 criteria on which to evaluate Hamlin, hoping that we can answer "yes" to the "required" number.

1. Most high school graduates stay in town.
2. Getting a loan on a sound business venture is possible.
3. The local paper constantly pushes civic improvement.
4. There's a chamber of commerce with a livewire manager.
5. There's a place to swim within easy reach.
6. Young couples have little trouble finding a place to live.
7. The head of your local government is a "get-things-done" man.
8. Town entrances are free from junk, shacks, billboards, and eyesores.
9. There's at least one doctor per 800 people in your county.
10. There's a library with a good collection of recent books.
11. Newcomers quickly feel

$486,260 FOR FIRE LOSS—

School Board Accepts Insurance Settlement

The Board of Trustees of the Hamlin Independent School District formally accepted the insurance settlement of $486,260 for the March fire loss of the Junior High School building. The funds will be invested until the board can make future building plans.

The board, in their regular meeting here Monday, accepted the resignations of five teachers for the coming year and was also informed that a teacher that they hired last week has withdrawn her application.

Mrs. Sharon Neighbors, who was hired last week as a junior high school English and Physical Education teacher, notified Bob Hawes, superintendent, that she was no longer interested in the position.

The board accepted the resignation of three members of the coaching staff and two teachers. Submitting resignations as teachers and coaches were Tommy Varner, seventh grade coach; David Watson, eighth grade coach; and Russell Merket, high school coach. Watson has accepted a high school coaching position at Eagle Pass and Merket has accepted the head coaching position at Jim Ned.

Also resigning were Mrs. Frank Codrington, high school history teacher, and Mrs. Rose Ann Graham, pre-kindergarten migrant teacher. Mrs. Codrington will join the Jones County Cooperative Education Program as counselor supervisor and will work with the Hamlin and Anson schools as a counselor.

The board appointed Henry Albritton, Sam Mack Hodges and Robert Moore as the Board of Equalization for the district.

In other business, the board approved a two-year contract with Orkin to treat the building currently being used as junior high and the elementary building for termites. The board also opened bids on constructing a new fence around the football field but took no action on the bids because of an apparent misunderstanding on the work to be done. The bids will be re-submitted at a later date.

The board hired Robert Brown of Dallas as an insurance rate specialist and authorized Supt. Hawes to seek applications for an Educational Consultant and a Food Service Director.

FAMILY LIFE EDUCATION—

Mature Parents

Confusion and conflict are likely to result from early parenthood—especially for young women, according to Mrs. Nery Wilburn, County Extension Agent.

The too-young mother tends to mix the social roles of child, adolescent and parent. Over a time, early parenthood may be related to marital instability, poverty and low educational achievement, the agent noted.

When young people get involved in educational programs related to family life and parenthood, they have a better chance to avoid being affected negatively by the early start of parenthood, she said.

Community sources of family life education—county extension agents, for example—can help groups and individuals plan programs to better understand child development, family life and parenthood.

HOW TO BUY CLOTHES IN 1975

With money-saving and energy-saving two of the biggest problems facing consumers this year, a panel of experts was recently called together to advise "How to Buy Clothes in 1975."

Vincent Monte-Sano, president of the New York Couture Business Council, advised, "The key to buying clothes today is quality—at all price levels. Turn the garment inside out, look at how the edges are finished, how wide the seams are, whether there are missed stitches. Of course, it must fit properly, and today make sure it's easy to care for."

Price alone does not determine a bargain, the authorities agreed at the New York conference. "If it's top quality for that particular item and it works for your way of living, you'll get good wear out of it. That makes it a bargain," said Carrie Donovan, senior fashion editor of Harper's Bazaar.

From the energy-saving standpoint, Sally Martinez, of the Federal Energy Administration, pointed out that washability should be a prime consideration. "And cold water laundering should be the rule, to save both energy and money. Most people don't realize the expense of hot water for laundering," she said. "Did you know it costs more for a man to shave with hot water than with an electric razor? Most people think the electric shaver would cost more, but actually heating the water is the higher cost." She added, "Hot water is the highest factor in your own laundering. It costs more than the laundry detergent, so that makes cold water laundering an important bargain for 1975."

Miss Martinez advised consumers to buy clothing that is adaptable to different temperatures—"for moving from room to room and from indoors to outdoors. We can save a lot of power and money, for both heating and air-conditioning, if we adopt the layered look. In other words, we should buy clothes that we can add or take off to adjust our comfort—in the home and the office—rather than trying to change the room climate by raising the heat or turning on the air conditioner."

Mr. Monte-Sano revealed that his organization had recently asked apparel manufacturers to stress the energy-saving importance of cold water laundering on garment labels. "We also pointed out," he said, "that today's washable fabrics, most of which are synthetics or blends, should never be washed in hot water anyway—a fact that some consumers still don't realize."

A key question for the panel was: do the economy and energy problems of 1975 mean a cutback in fashion taste? Absolutely not, the panel agreed. As Miss Donovan put it, "Any woman who has taste can put herself together attractively today—at any price level."

Arthritis Forum Slated In Abilene Friday Night

A Public Forum on Arthritis is scheduled for Friday in the "Woodward-Dulles Recital Auditorium" on the Hardin-Simmons University campus in Abilene.

BAROMETER
for the FUTURE

Webster says that a barometer is an instrument measuring the weight or pressure of the atmosphere, foretelling and measuring changes of weather and altitude.

If God were to place a barometer on our lives, would we be cold, lukewarm, or on fire for the Lord. The past we can not change. . . the future is up to us.

"... what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul." ATTEND CHURCH REGULARLY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

High School Elects New Cheerleaders

Election of cheerleaders was held Thursday after tryouts last Wednesday. Selected by vote of the students were head cheerleader, Susan Howerton, a junior, Patrice Moore, junior, Debra Hollis, junior, Cheryl Baker, sophomore, and Jamie Crowley, freshman.

Cheerleaders are selected by secret ballot, one from each class and two at large. A clinic was held by the sponsor, Miss Dora Mitchell. Any student enrolled in Hamlin High School during the previous semester with a grade average of 75 was eligible to attend the clinic and have their name printed on the ballot.

Attending the clinic this year were Rita Casey, senior head cheerleader, Debra Hollis, Susan Howerton, Cindy Lewis, Patrice Moore, all juniors; Cheryl Baker and Janice Cork, both sophomores; and Starlet Covington, Jamie Crowley and Leela Phariss, all freshmen.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is stocking lakes and experimenting with some lesser varieties of the uncommon in the fisheries families for a variety of reasons. One is the known fact that anglers are thoroughly familiar with bass, crappie, catfish and sunfish. They want something new.

They're getting it. The Florida bass is being stocked, and when it crosses with native Texas bass you will have the "superbass," and the smallmouth is going into reservoirs over the state. There are golden croaker, brown and rainbow trout, striped bass from saltwater, and Fisheries Director Bob Kemp and Inland Fisheries Coordinator Lonnie Peters are doing in-depth work with kamloops trout, coho salmon, redfish, speckled trout from the coast, the Peacock bass from South America and an assortment of hybrids that may eventually change the entire fishing picture in Texas. Texas may lose identity as the best fishing state in the nation and become known as the "fishing superstate".

It should be. We have more inland water than any state except Alaska.

Game wardens and biologists don't collect such reams of data they desire overnight. It may take some years before all the facts are in and ecological barriers erected and torn down, ideal locations picked, the right fish for the right type of water chosen, but it will be eventually in the files and the work going on. Unlike the Hollywood marriage where no ten-year wedding an-

Philosopher Claims He Knows Why the Domino Theory Didn't Apply In Viet Nam

Editor's note: The Neinda Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Route One takes a last look at the Viet Nam war this week.

Dear editor:

I know President Ford has said we ought to forget about the Viet Nam war and turn our thoughts to other things here at home, and I intend to, but there's one last thing I'd like to say.

As I understand it, one of the stated reasons for our being over there was the domino theory, that if South Viet Nam fell to the Communists then another country would, then another and another, like dominoes do when you stand them on end in a row and push the first one over.

I have thought this over and while I haven't figured out who stood those countries on end in the first place and who set them up in rows, I followed the war in the newspapers and on television, noticing that the more we bombed the less we won, that the Generals who kept saying they could see the light at the end of the tunnel didn't seem to know the war wasn't in a tunnel, it was out in the jungles. In fact, we went through countless tunnels, only to find they led to nowhere.

Therefore I've come to the conclusion that the game over there wasn't dominoes, it was checkers.

But it wasn't played by the rules of checkers used here in Hamlin. The Viet Cong played like all its checkers were kings from the start of the game and you could move them forward or backward any time you pleased and jump in any direction you wanted and over as many spaces as you like. If it looked like they were losing they'd grab their checkers and move to another board in another part of the jungle.

I don't know why it never occurred to our leaders that you can't play dominoes on a checker board.

And the thing I guess we'd better be thinking about is that the Generals who kept saying we've got the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese mortally weakened and on the run, all we need is a few hundred thousand more men and a few more billion dollars and we'll have victory by Christmas, are the same Generals who will be in charge if the U.S. ever gets into a really genuine war of survival.

President Ford is right, we ought to turn our thoughts to something else, and that may be one of them.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Unseen Hazard

One of the less obvious hazards faced by the cold weather driver, notes the Texas Safety Association, is deadly carbon monoxide poisoning.

Invisible, tasteless, odorless carbon monoxide gas is a greater hazard in cold weather because drivers roll up their windows on chilly days, cutting off ventilation that would normally sweep fumes out of the passenger compartment.

Positive ventilation — a movement of fresh air through the car's passenger compartment — is a strong defense against carbon monoxide poisoning. However, safety experts caution, simply opening side vent windows will not necessarily ventilate a car. Since vent windows opened to their normal position draw air out of the passenger compartment rather than funneling it in, the result could be to help draw in exhaust fumes already seeping into the passenger compartment.

Good automobile maintenance is the best insurance against carbon monoxide dangers. Exhaust systems should be free of blown-out gaskets, leaking pipe connections and holes in mufflers and tailpipes. Holes in the floorboards, firewall or trunk can also provide an easy entry for fumes leaking from the exhaust system.

Tip-offs to carbon monoxide poisoning include drowsiness, weakness, headache, dizziness, nausea, loss of muscular control and increased pulse and respiration. Although unconsciousness can occur without any warning signals, the motorist who feels any of these symptoms should get out of the car and breathe some fresh air. He should then drive with the windows down and have the exhaust system checked at the first opportunity.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Carlton Monday were Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Calhoun of Jacksboro.

ATTA WAY TA GO—

KEEP ON KEEPING ON — YOU CAN DO IT.

Jackson Body Shop

823-3283 IN ANSON

Without advertising, you can wave goodbye to the comic strips, the sports page, and the front page of your newspaper.

And maybe your own job.

Think about it. Advertising pays for the features and the news that your newspaper brings to you so economically. Companies that want to tell you about their products, their sales, and their unique services pay for the space to advertise and that pays for most of the newspaper.

If these companies were suddenly deprived of their right to advertise — to communicate with their customers — you can be sure sales would drop. If sales drop, production slows and ultimately people lose jobs. And if certain Texas companies could possibly be ordered not to advertise, who would be next? Maybe your company?

The next time you think about advertising, think about free speech and the right of one person to communicate with another. It's all the same thing.

Write Governor Dolph Briscoe, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711 and your legislators to tell them how you feel. Then sit back and enjoy your newspaper.

Advertising is everybody's business.

This ad appears as a public service of this newspaper.

Eleven Attend Area FFA Convention In San Angelo

Eleven persons representing the Hamlin FFA Chapter attended the Area II FFA Convention in San Angelo May 9-10. Those attending were Randy Elmore, Tracy Gregory, Steve Hastings, Tommy Maberry, Carrie May, Russell May, Kayla Mehaffey, Guy Turner, Milburn Wink, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Finley.

Several individual members of the Hamlin FFA Chapter and the Hamlin FFA Chapter competed for various awards at the Convention. Russell May won area approval for the Lone Star Farmer Degree, the highest degree conferred by the Texas FFA Association upon its members. Carrie May competed for the National FFA Foundation Poultry Production Award. Julio Villaneuva competed for the Cooperative Part-time Training Award in Farm Employees.

Guy Turner, Star Green Hand of the Hamlin FFA Chapter and the Double Mountain FFA District, was named a runner-up for the Area II Star Green Hand Award.

Randy Elmore was selected as one of two FFA members from Area II to continue in competition for a Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo College Scholarship. The Houston Fat Stock Show and Rodeo Association has been giving ten $4,000 college scholarships to FFA members in Texas for the past several years.

The Hamlin FFA Chapter placed first in Area II in the Building Our American Communities Award Program. This was based primarily on the work the chapter members have done during the year for the Hamlin Child Care Center. In the National Chapter Contest, the Hamlin Chapter placed second. The chapter also received a superior rating in the state chapter rating contest. A superior rating is the highest rating a chapter can receive in state competition. This is the fourteenth consecutive year for the Hamlin Chapter to receive a superior rating. The chapter will continue in competition on the state level in the Building Our American Communities Award Program and in the National Chapter Contest.

The chapter also entered several categories in the VATAT Awards Program. These awards will be presented at the state conference of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas in Houston the latter part of July. Hamlin vocational agriculture teachers, Milburn Wink and Gary Finley were named Area II winners in newspaper and magazine public relations. The Hamlin Herald was named the outstanding newspaper in Area II for promoting vocational agriculture and the FFA. The Hamlin Jaycees were named the outstanding service organization in Area II for supporting the FFA and vocational agriculture programs. The Jaycees were cited for their work in sponsoring the Hamlin Community Livestock Show which they have done for the past nine years.

W. T. Johnson, president of the F & M National Bank and president of the Board of Education for the Hamlin Independent School District, was nominated by the chapter to receive the Honorary Lone Star Farmer Degree. His nomination was approved and he will receive his degree at next year's Area II FFA Convention. Gary Finley was also approved to receive the Honorary Lone Star Farmer Degree. He will receive his degree at the Area II FFA Leadership Contest in Big Spring next fall.

Kayla Mehaffey, president of the Double Mountain FFA District, assisted with registration throughout the convention, assisted in collecting and selling meal tickets, and assisted with the elections during the convention.

Tommy Maberry, Steve Hastings and Tracy Gregory served as voting delegates at the convention.
